

Markus Gasser
Director

Markus Gasser studied film and new media in Vienna at the Art Institute and is still based here. After his studies he became an editor and worked on several projects in short film as well as in the commercial industry.

Since 2011 he is multimedia director and consultant for moving images at peng! magazine and freelance director in the commercial world.

The style of his work is surrounded by his passion of telling stories.

Therefore his main goal is to find the perfect combination of story, look, cast and music, always in focus to create beautiful emotional pictures with charme and sometimes a little humor.

His idea is to take the audience on a journey, therefore he likes camera settings off the classic usage.
